

where many people have been killed and hurt, but I wonder, certainly that doesn't mean inspecting each mobile home does it? Or does it.

SENATOR WAGNER: No, well basically. . . going back to your earlier question that is a part of the licensure procedure, those fees and they do it now and this would just be a reimbursement for them.

SPEAKER NICHOL: But isn't that, on mobile homes isn't that for the cost of going out and inspecting them? Or am I off the track here?

SENATOR WAGNER: A part of the cost. . . well it is a part of the cost that they would, involving going out and inspecting the homes, yes.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Each individual home?

SENATOR WAGNER: I wouldn't say each individual home. I think they look at basically the park there and. . .

SPEAKER NICHOL: Well I don't follow this, Senator Wagner.

SENATOR WAGNER: Senator Nichol, I'm informed that it is for the entire park.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Okay, now are we talking about the place where they take baths and have the building where it provides the heating for the units or. . . in other words it is not for inspecting the mobile home units themselves, is that correct?

SENATOR WAGNER: Senator Nichol, it has to do with gas hookups and things of this nature. Anything that involves safety.

SPEAKER NICHOL: So it is not for inspecting actually the homes nor buildings on the deal, it has to do with inspecting gas hookups and so forth, which I can understand if it would be done from time to time more so than the ordinary home.

SENATOR WAGNER: Probably. . . I'm not following you here Senator Nichol.

SPEAKER NICHOL: Well I can understand why you would want to have inspection of gas hookups because those are done every once in awhile, because of the mobile homes moving in and out, I assume. So, if that is what it is for it makes sense. But, would that charge of $15 to $50 be for each connection or would that be for the entire park whether it has five or
